Still, it's only fair to former Juvenile Judge Peg Lindsey to state that he isn't the first one so badly bitten by the publicity bug as to lose his effectiveness as a public official. We see him on every side.

It's a wonder it has never occurred to President Coolidge to put one over on the senate by forbidding it to do something he wants done.

Conceding that "business is business," we can not evade the view that it would have something of a tendency to lessen Uncle Sam in public esteem should he see fit to enter the booze business.

Considering all the preparations just as good as guaranteed to keep a man physically right, it's a bit hard to understand how anybody ever goes physically wrong.

A Belated Tribute.

It is a matter for regret that the condition of the city treasury is such that the improvement of west Center street can not be taken up this year, but there is some consolation to be had from the announcement that the city council is committed to the plan to go ahead with the improvement next year even though it may not be possible to complete it as a whole.

The need of the improvement is so apparent to all that it would be a waste alike of time and space to dwell upon this phase of the proposition. We believe our citizens so generally recognize the fact that action is necessary that they will stand squarely behind the members of council in any action they may legally take to salvage what is left of the street and save Church street to the south of it, which necessarily suffers from having to bear the big end of the traffic burden of the two streets owing to the awful condition of west Center.

West Center street should have been repaved years ago, but circumstances have been such that the city did not get to it. The World war proved one of the obstacles in the way of the conditioning of the street, and lack of funds has been the chief obstacle since. As it is, the street has stood up under traffic far longer and better than any street of similar foundation and construction is expected to stand. It is the main highway between the up-town business district and the union station. It has carried a heavier traffic load than it was ever expected it would have to bear. It has been weakened by excavations in and under it and it has been undermined by floods due to insufficient—or rather, inefficient—storm water drainage. When put down, the prediction was made that it wouldn't last fifteen years, and yet it has lasted over twenty. If our recollection serves us correctly, west Center was our first paved street. All in all, despite the fact that it is now somewhat of a ruin, we pay belated tribute to its builders. Time has demonstrated that they constructed something of a street.

For Minority Government.

We read a Columbus story last week to the effect that Ohio election reforms will be sought through three bills drafted by the officials of the Ohio Primary Defense league, of which former State Senator John F. Burke, of Elvira, is the bright, shining light.

One bill will provide for holding primaries a month later than heretofore, the first Tuesday after the first Monday in September rather than in August. We are not prepared to say at this time whether the effect of this would be good or bad, although we incline to believe the former. Another bill provides that in order to be a candidate for nomination to office at a primary election, a person must have on his or her petition the signatures of at least one per cent. of the total number of voters who cast their ballots for their respective party's candidate for governor at the preceding gubernatorial election. The bill, also, would decree that not less than half of these signatures must consist of at least one-half of one per cent. of such vote cast in each of forty-four out of Ohio's eighty-eight counties. There may be merit in this also, undoubtedly there is in the first phase of it, but we seriously question if the second would be constitutional. But let it pass. It's the remaining bill of the trio in which we are chiefly interested.

The third bill is to authorize voters to keep secret their party affiliations when voting at a primary election, but will restrict the voter to but one ticket. If this bill means what the Columbus story makes it mean, it is as close as a twin brother to the run of "reform" legislation which has been inflicted upon the public in recent years. It would make the Ohio primary system even more vicious than it already is. It's not a new idea at all. It has been tried out in the West and Northwest. It was a pet idea with the Non-Partisan leaguers and is with the obstructionists who call themselves Progressives. It's favored by the socialistic, bolshevistic, communistic and I. W. W. elements. It's directed against two-party government and majority government and thus for the benefit of minority government, which in the final analysis is the forerunner of no constitutional government at all.

Republicans, under this bill could go into a primary and vote for a Democrat, and vice versa, to bring about the nomination of the candidate they can most easily defeat at the November election. A small minority party can so vote as to hold the balance of power by dominating the nominations of candidates, throwing its full strength to the candidate favorable to its policies no matter with what party he nominally affiliates.

This government of ours was founded as a two-party government, and it has thrived as such, despite the attempts to make it a government of blocks. What discouragements and backslows we have suffered of recent years has been due largely to legislation engineered by blocs. There isn't a thriving, solvent, debt-paying government upon the face of the earth today run by blocks. Why any legislation to ease the way for bloc or minority government?

We look to the Ohio general assembly to make short work of this bill. No Democrat can consistently vote for it. No Republican can consistently vote for it. No believer in two-party government can give it his or her support. It's a vicious proposal.

In the light of Mr. McAdoo's recent statement that there was no office he wanted less than the presidency, we are just about compelled to question his truth and veracity or assume that his recent maneuvers were intended merely to keep some one else out of the White House.

The body of a Chicago man missing for three weeks was found in a wall nook behind his folding bed which is believed to have closed upon him when he threw himself upon it—another illustration to support the contention that the great majority of the physical risks we run are about the home and that more or less modern inventions are responsible for the big percentage of them.

District Attorney Banton, of New York, says he is tired of censors and play jurors and heretofore will send producers of indecent plays to prison. But where will he get a jury, from people who will stand for such plays as New York has been offering to convict?

The Washington Star is of the opinion that "beauty prizes have been awarded so promiscuously that there might be some interest in a competition to discover a homely girl who is amiable and who knows how to keep house." Are we to take it that the Washington Star is here holding out that it's possible for a homely girl to be amiable?

LEBANON.

As I came down from Lebanon,
 Came winding, wandering slowly down
 And took the way where the sand
 The cloudless day was well-nigh done.
 The city, like an opal set
 In emerald, showed each minaret
 Afire with radiant beams of sun,
 And glistened orange, fig and lime,
 Where song-birds made melodious chime.
 As I came down from Lebanon,
 Like lava in the drying glow,
 Through olive-orchards far below
 I saw the murmuring river run.
 And 'neath the willow, where the sand
 Swart sheiks from distant Samarcand,
 With precious spices they had won,
 Lay long and languidly in wait
 Till they might pass the guarded gate.
 As I came down from Lebanon,
 I saw strange men from lands afar,
 In mosque and square and gay bazaar,
 The Magi that the Moslem chum,
 And gave offerings from Stamboul,
 Who herbed spiced in corners cool;
 And, from the balconies overhung
 With roses, gleamed the eyes of those
 Who dwell in still seraglio.
 As I came down from Lebanon,
 The flaming flower of daytime died,
 And night, arrayed as in a bride
 Of some great king, in garments spun
 Of purple and the finest gold,
 Outloomed in glories manifold,
 Until the moon, above the dun
 And dancing desert void of shade,
 Shone like a keen, luminous blade.
 As I came down from Lebanon,

HIS MEN OF TOMORROW.

Selection of Foods Cure of Ills.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

If there is one subject more than another about which I get letters it is the subject of constipation. If there is one trouble more than another which is responsible for human distress it is constipation. If there is one ailment more than another which is neglected by the human family it is constipation. It is amazing how prevalent this symptom is. I call it a symptom because it is only that. It is not a disease. It is merely one effect of many a possible cause.

The funny thing about it is that many and many a person is a constipated who has a bowel movement every day. Ask about this habit and the answer is, "Oh, I'm perfectly regular!"

Yet the fact is, the lower bowel may be packed with fecal matter. The fecal stream is sluggish. In consequence, the evacuation of today is intestinal waste which should have passed away several days ago.

Nobody can be at his best when the bowel is filled with a mass of fermenting material. There is sure to be absorption of poisons which will lessen efficiency if they do not produce actual illness.

I can recall a man who used to have periodical attacks of indigestion so severe that he would wretch and vomit and carry on for hours at a great rate. The excited family would send for a doctor to give a hypodermic.

These experiences continued for years. After a while the man woke up to the fact that his bowel was never clean. He was constantly constipated. Simple measures to overcome this defect resulted in the disappearance of the attacks of "indigestion."

Most cases of constipation are the result of wrong eating. There must be bulky food, "roughage," as the farmers call it in describing the feeding of horses and cattle.

Our modern foods, refined and predigested, are not harsh and rough enough to stimulate intestinal action. Vegetables, fruits and fibrous things are needed.

Most folks fail to drink enough water. There must be sufficient fluid to keep the tissues moist. A couple of quarts of drinking water a day is not too much.

Fats and pastries must be avoided or greatly reduced in quantity. They promote constipation. Exercise is important. Persons who walk, stoop and work little are apt to be constipated. An increase in muscular effort will be helpful.

These are some of the non-medical things which will aid in the correction of this common evil. Also their practice will go far toward preventing the development of constipation.

M. R. S. Q.—What causes an acid condition of the blood and would this be responsible for bronchitis spots on the face?

A.—Improper diet and poor intestinal elimination would be responsible for both symptoms. Watch your diet and be sure to keep the intestinal tract clear. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question. The brown spots are probably liver spots.

V. S. Q.—What do you advise for reducing the legs?

A.—Reducing the weight in general will probably help. Eat sparingly of starches, sugars and fats. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.—Copyright, 1927.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygienic and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it can not be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address all inquiries to Dr. Royal S. Copeland, in care of this office.

Some Questions of Interest Asked and Answered.

Q. Do sea gulls have any call or cry? M. M. A. The characteristic note of the sea gull's call is, in large birds, a harsh, querulous, laughing and screaming cry. In smaller birds the call is a curious, meaning cry similar to that of the larger birds, but much softer.

Q. How is Gertrude Ederle's name pronounced? M. J. P. A. The accepted pronunciation of the name Ederle is Ed er le.

Q. I would like to know if Henry Ford ever made and put on the market for sale a six-cylinder Ford. If so, in what year was it made? A. F. A. A local authority on automobiles says that the first car that was put on the market by Henry Ford was a four-cylinder car, and all those of the present time are four-cylinder cars. Between 1900 and 1911, however, Mr. Ford produced some cars which contained six cylinders.

Q. Who furnishes the music at the various White House receptions? E. M. G. A. At all White House receptions the music is furnished by the United States Marine band. An old order book of the marine corps shows that the band was to play at the presidential reception at the White House as early as New Year's day, 1803.

Q. Who was Josiah Morse? J. B. L. A. He was called the "Father of American Geography," having published in 1781 a book, "Geography Made Easy," which was the first

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

The professional optimist is not so happy as he appears. He is trying to find a way of escape from the hardships and struggles of life. He knows that in his heart that he can not escape them except by an extraordinary course of luck which he is unlikely to find. In the drama of life, one of the characters is made to say: "Thus ready for the way of life or death, I wait the sharpest blow."

The philosophy which is the background for that remark is vastly more satisfying in the long run than the mere optimism which can do little more than promote a whistle when one passes the graveyard.

There is no good way out of life except through the thick of it.

One of the smartest things we can be doing in youth and middle age is to be laying up a "bank account" for the falling years to come. Money in the bank is important, but resources in the mind are even more important. As age comes on we shall be thrown back upon our resources. Resources are built out of reading and thinking. They come largely out of books. If we have not acquired the love of reading we are in for a race against time. You may not know Emily Dickinson, but you should know her for these words:

"He ate and drank the precious words,
 His spirit grew robust;
 He knew no more that he was poor,
 Nor that his frame was dust.
 He danced along the dingy days,
 And this benighted wings
 Was but a book. What liberty
 A loosened spirit brings!"

We expect preaching from preachers. Perhaps we listen more gravely when a judge of the United States district court speaks. Judge Knox, of New York, has just got through saying:

"Men of affairs refrain from admitting their religious affiliations, apologizing for the alliance with the church. They assume the attitude of Simon Peter, who denied he was a disciple of the Lord."

And what happens when men of affairs find it embarrassing to admit loyalty to the better things of life? This same judge says we can find the results of this attitude in the present state of public and private morals, as it is exemplified in the growing trial; in the political corruption revealed in Pennsylvania and Illinois, and in volumes of unenforced and unenforceable laws.

We frequently listen to United States district judges and they are frequently right. But the fact that the Browning trial reveals an exception to the fairly dependable habits of the dependable rank and file of folks is the reason it gets so much mention and attention. It is doubtful if public and private morals are on the way down. And as for political corruption, there was as much of it in proportion to the population in the day of Alexander Hamilton and Thomas Jefferson as there is now.

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS.

I wonder if any quarrels are ever settled by mail any more. It used to be common, they say, for two men that wanted to brawl each other out to set down and spend a couple of hours each week, just writing a dirty letter to one another.

Then, there was the old-fashioned guy that talked it out by seeing which could call the other the worst names and say the most low-down things about the other one.

It's all done take no brains to operate. But I've heard lately that there are still old-fashioned neighborhood, mostly among the Irish folks in the big cities, where differences are settled, especially among the young people, with fists, just like they used to be before the guns that do no brains to operate. These quaint neighborhood cant, at-ford machine guns or else they just naturally are backward and refuse to listen to the gospel of progress.

In one of these old places Mrs. Casey said: "It's a fine, clean boy you have, Mrs. Callahan." "Faith, an' it is that. D'ye notice that he changes to a placid smile every evening" when he comes home from work?" "I did notice it, and I wondered why he changes like that way in the evening?" "In the morning" when he goes to work. "He goes out among the byes in the evening," y'see, and he wants his shirt to be shiny white when he takes off his coat to fight a bit." Copyright, 1927.

Dinner Stories.

An ambitious young man was being instructed at his own request by a professor of elocution in the art of public speaking. The professor knew that his vanity far exceeded his ability, so he gave him one last piece of advice. "When you have finished your lecture, bow gracefully and leave the platform on tip-toe." "Why on tip-toe?" queried the would-be orator.

"So as not to wake the audience," was the quiet reply.

Mrs. Jenkins, a regular visitor at the doctor's office, started on the long story of her troubles. The doctor endured it patiently, and gave her another bottle of medicine. At last she started out, and the doctor was congratulating himself when she stopped and exclaimed:

"Why, doctor, you didn't look to see if my tongue was coated!"

"I know it isn't," was the weary reply. "You don't find grass on a racing track."

Q. Please tell me if Prince Hal was an Englishman, and if he was given a charter to work in Masonry in the United States. E. J. A. Prince Hal, to whom was granted a charter, September 12, 1881, to organize negro Masons in the United States, was a colored man of high repute and was a native and resident of Boston.

Q. What can I plant in a bed to make a vivid display of color that will last several weeks? F. F. A. A bed of scarlet sage or salvia splendens, bordered with dusty miller is one of the most brilliant beds. One such bed near the Lincoln memorial in Washington, has been for many weeks the scene of a constant blaze of color. Feeding the blooms or tips will make the plant branch and lengthen the blooming period.

Q. Does one eat an olive from a fork, or in the fingers? M. V. An olive is held in the fingers.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTRE.

New York, Feb. 7.—Diary of a modern Poppy: Up fairly betimes and Gabe Buck came by and we walked across town to a breakfast of kidney saute with mushrooms, tasty enough, but annoyed by a waiter who insisted upon spouting his radical ideas.

So off to a store to inquire about a fur coat I admired, but the price so frightened me I left the clerk in confusion, I would come later to buy it, which I have no intention of doing. Then to see Will Lenzel, the editor, and back to my chambers.

Maybelle Manning, home from Europe, came to dinner and afterward others dropped in and all met over my efforts to martyr them with the circus shell game, but not one would make a wager. So late to bed.

New York may not be desirable as a place to live and rear children. My own opinion is it affords a child unusual opportunities, but lacks the wholesome contact of the small town. In any event I do not think it is as undesirable a place to live as he may think.

A letter before me reads: "We have inherited our sense of values, making the city a place instead of a servant. That means a spiritual degeneracy that spells ruin." That is pure puff. Most of us in New York are burrowing away at our jobs like moles, to buy a home in the country for an escape.

There are thousands who do not like New York, but who admit its stimulating effect. Poor old things here in a big war and those of us plugging away at puny jobs, feel the urge to greater endeavor, even though we usually fall far short of the mark. New York makes most of us try, at least.

I believe the little things in the metropolis fret us most. Such as the $1.98 and $14.85 price tags, indicating we are suckers who will fall for a trick price. The $2.00 for a three dollar theatrical ticket. The gatehouse gouge. Coat room bandits. And such petty pilfering. Pin the man down who chants his threnody of hate for Gotham and those are the sort of things he abhors.

A stroll on Fifth avenue any sunny morning is a mental quickener few small towns afford. Here we see the overture of wealth, expressed in shiny limousines, impudently fume about in greater endeavor, even though we usually fall far short of the mark. New York makes most of us try, at least.

At a preliminary boxing match the other evening a young Frenchman, in the first round, received an ankle swing to the stomach and buckled up. He slammed off his gloves, and holding up a polite, but protesting hand, murmured: "Parlez, Monsieur! Parlez!" He had enough, bless his heart.

Over on Ninth avenue there are a number of "preliminary boys" who battle for ham and egg money at important fights and are idols of that turbulent thoroughfare. They rarely attain pugilistic eminence or come to a good end, but they are popular with the ladies, who accept them—cauliflower ears and all.

It is in the breasts of the jobless, sprawled in public squares, that discontent fomented. And yet, an employment agent says he canvassed Bryant park one bleak day this winter to offer four jobs which paid $30 a week and board in a southern city—railroad transportation free—and twenty-two able-bodied men turned them down with the thin excuse they would have to leave New York.

I have often wondered why most of us, meeting prominent men we desire somewhat to impress, can think of nothing brighter to say than, "How do you do?"—Copyright, 1927.

TEMPORARY RECTOR

Ontario Man Preaches at St. Paul's Episcopal Church

Rev. S. S. Hardy of Galesburg, Ontario, who conducted Sunday services at St. Paul's Episcopal Church yesterday, will remain here during the month of February, in the capacity of temporary rector of the church, according to announcement made yesterday. The impressive sermon which Reverend Hardy preached at the service at 10:30 o'clock dealt with the subject of Holy Communion.

"The many titles with which we refer to Holy Communion, reveal the profound significance of that most comprehensive sacrament," Reverend Hardy said. "Whether we know it as the Blessed Sacrament, the Lord's Supper, the Holy Eucharist, mass or simply, Holy Communion, it has a deep meaning for us."

"We celebrate Holy Communion primarily as a remembrance," Reverend Hardy continued. "As a reminder of God's providence. We also think of Holy Communion as a sacrament of communion, at which we re-unite the divine tragedy of the cross, the thought of ourselves, our souls and bodies in this service of redemption to Christ; as a feast, for feasting is always associated with sacrifice; a feast at which we gather about the Table of the Lord. Then too we think of it as an act of obedience, the application of the principles laid down by Christ when he said, 'Do this in remembrance of me.'"

In conclusion Reverend Hardy said, "We cannot fully understand the significance of this profound service but it is not necessary to... we must learn by doing, as Christ bid us."

The solo, beautifully sung by Ernst C. Carl, director of the choir, was "Thou Wilt Keep Him in Perfect Peace" by H. L. Case.

CHURCH FILLED

Large Congregation Hears Sermon on "Gossip"

A congregation which filled the entire seating space of the First Presbyterian Church, Sunday night, heard the pastor, Rev. R. W. Smiley, talk on the subject "Gossip," one of a series of special sermons he is giving on prevalent social evils.

The pastor declared that this is one of the most insidious and destructive elements in the social structure.

"Given a five-minute start, gossip travels so rapidly that an electric flash cannot catch up with it," he said. He defined gossip as the act of saying things about persons behind their backs that we would not say to their face.

The person who does the talking is not alone in the evil act, for gossip is not possible unless the one who does the broadcasting has an audience, the Presbyterian pastor declared, placing emphasis on the fact that guilt must be shared by the listeners.

Next Sunday night Reverend Smiley's subject will be "Jealousy," and the following week he will discuss "Hypocrisy."

The local church has been without a pastor since the resignation of Rev. Paul R. Clouser, who accepted a call to the Lutheran Church in Carey.

Living

SALTED BUTTER

Loving

If all men were of the same opinion life would be as sorrowless as unaltered butter.

What subject continues to be highly interesting after it has lost its potency to provoke a "for and again it?"

Now there's the married woman's individuality, to be or not to be her former self in name only—a much mooted question!

There's a story told of a certain English lady who although only a few years past fifty wore her glossy hair, guileless of gray, neatly coiled beneath a cap of lace.

"But why?" queried an interested observer. "You are in your prime and yet you affect the coiffure of a really aged dame."

The lady smiled and nodded in the direction of her husband standing in a far corner of the room.

"I wear it so because of him," said she. "You see, my husband is a great deal older than I and I think under such circumstances, it is more fitting."

CAN there be an example better illustrative of tact and consideration? These and these only were responsible for that woman was an individualist. Strong was her spirit of independence, she'd have brooked no attempt to weaken it. She considered it the inalienable right of woman to be herself, to think and to act as innate truth dictated. She would have been the last to approve of Jill's personality being submerged in Jack's.

Submissiveness to no will but of her own free will did she detract from her own character, accept her age because love's alchemy had transformed her lord's content into her pleasure, had sharpened her intention to realize that had she hesitated, however unconsciously, the years between, she would have been hurt by society's unified eyebrow.

A STRIKING criticism was once uttered by no less a personage than the late Amy Lowell in an address to the Lucy Stoners.

"Women who insist upon keeping their own names after marriage are suffering from egomania. I do not believe in a people turning their ego into the most important part of their life. If any human being does not care more for something in this life than he does for his own individuality, he is no good and the sooner his name is lost the better. All you have to do is to do something, and you will be known whether you have a name or not. I do not approve of shouting your individuality or carrying it on a banner. Yet I am an individualist."

We are not trying to prove any point. We are entirely neutral. We simply think the contrast in woman's ways of thinking is food for reflection.

Patsy's Patter

Gossip and Guesses in the World of Sport

By Pat Murphy

THREE of the four leading hitters of the American League left over from Ty Cobb's stewardship of the Detroit Tigers, are the heritages of George Moriarty, former American League umpire, who will pitch the club this year. Cobb left his outfield job to be replaced by the centerfield position vacated by the George peach.

Heinie Manush, the league-leading batter, whose average last year was .377, Bob Fothergill and Harry Hiltman who tied with average of .307 each, lack of Babe Ruth in second, are Moriarty's 1937 assets.

The outstanding winter purchase of the Tiger management was Marty McManus, St. Louis Browns' infielder, who was sought by several other major league clubs. McManus will play third base, present plans indicate. Jack Farnsworth will be returned to shortstop and Lou Blue will remain at first base. Charlie Gehringer will be a leading candidate for second.

Moriarty has maintained silence as to reorganization plans, but he has launched extensive efforts to build a new pitching staff. A score of pitchers, many of them holdovers, will enter spring training several weeks before the bulk of the Tigers return to the field in San Antonio. Joe Doyle, Owen Carroll and Carl Hubbell, three pitchers who helped Toronto win the International League pennant last year, are to land their experience in Moriarty's attempt to lift Detroit out of the league's second division.

Dagun, Holloway, Collins, Brown, Gibson and Smith are the right-handed batters on the White Sox. Wells and Johnson are 507 porters.

Three recruits have been taken from the Texas league. They are Owens and Watt of San Antonio, and Wallop of Fort Worth.

In recent years nearly all of the teams have come from the American or Pacific coasts, with few from inland states.

A. H. BART, Columbus wrestling promoter, has signed what he considers the prize match of the year. John Pesek, the Nebraska "Tiger Man," meets Rudy Dusek, one of the best known of the junior heavyweight, in Memorial Hall, Columbus, Wednesday night.

Pesek is the greatest attraction in the wrestling game. He recently lost a decision to Champion Joe Stecher, who outweighed him 30 pounds, after five hours of grueling wrestling. Pesek was as fresh after the match as he was at the start, while Stecher was a badly used champion.

Dusek, who opposes Pesek, has long been a favorite with Columbus wrestling fans, and no doubt the big hall will be filled. Quite a number of Marion fans are interested in the wrestling game and this city will be well represented at the match.

Australia and France will be represented in the boxing exhibition at Madison Square Garden, New York, Monday night. Blanche Miller, heavyweight champion from New York, will fight for the title with Martin Burns, ex-10 rounds, and Pierre Gaudin will try to prove to Joe Carner of France that Carner was not the last of the Frenchmen.

Sam Johnson, who has furnished many columns of sport for this paper, was seen at sporting writer himself.

THE arena at Boy's Thirty Acres, erected last year at the site for the Battle of the Century between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier, is to be dismantled. This will be about the last demolition job that has been planned for many years. At every job that has been held there since the first one, the promoters were gambling with wholesale murder. If there had been an alarm of fire or any start of a riot, the demolition would have been back place after the Battle of the Century, the wooden arena would have been the scene of one of the worst disasters in years.

It was in this place that Jess Willard, the former heavyweight champion, was beaten by Senor Luis Angel Firpo in the preliminary bout to the Firpo-Dempsey drama at the Rich Greenwood. It was here that Firpo was beaten by Harry Wills in what was perhaps the worst and dullest heavyweight fight ever held anywhere. It was here that Benjamin Leonard, the retired lightweight champion, fought one of his lucrative bouts with that other heavyweight and business man, Lew Teller.

That the Battle of the Sequenquennial Boy's Thirty Acres held the distinction of having housed the largest number of cash customers ever gathered for an exhibition of the manly art of modified murder.

Walter Johnson has been with the Washington club during his entire major league career of 20 years.

WE observe that a certain boxer is barred in one state for attempting a fixed fight but note this won't affect him in other states that have no working agreement with the first commonwealth. Plain, ordinary honesty seems entirely too much to expect, without working agreements to bolster up the situation.

Twenty-five years ago, Arthur Tully was the 137 athlete to complete the record of 3-5 seconds for running 100 yards.

THE latest rumor of a trade between the Tigers and the Browns has it that George Durr, the left-handed sub-outfielder with the Browns, and Gene Robertson, third baseman, are coming to New York. Huggins has had various Yankee-Brown trades brewing for a year, but somehow they never resulted in a transaction. In one of the previous trades Huggins was to give up Sam Jones and Walter Beall.

KADAMACHER BREAKS RECORD

Berlin, Feb. 7.—Erich Kadamacher, crack German swimmer today broke his own world record for two hundred metres by three seconds. His time was two minutes, 27.4 seconds.

HE WORRIES FOES AND SCRIBES

Harry Hiltner, forward of the Ohio Wesleyan basketball team, is known as a dangerous member of the team to foes of the court. Sports writers find him equally as dangerous as a typographical problem. Harry estimates his name is spelled right but 10 per cent of the time, and the pronunciation of it range from Sacer to Noser. He pronounces it by leaving the "H" silent and sounding the "I" short.

Midways Issue Challenge to Winner of Cage Series

Another Marion team now steps forth and issues a challenge to the winner of the Isaly Dairy-Stream Shovel series. The Midway Lunches, having lost but two games this season, wants to play the winner of the series, George Paulson, manager of the team, announced today.

The Midways have been playing the preliminaries to the Isaly games all season and have shown themselves capable of putting up a stiff front to any team. They have not lost a home game since being organized.

The Midway crew is composed of all Marion men, all former Harding High stars with the exception of Burke and Merkle, who are seniors in St. Mary's High this year. Johnny Merkle is acting manager of the outfit and has had charge of looking the games this season.

The Midways consider themselves worthy of consideration in this series that involves two of Marion's greatest tennis and challenges the winner to a battle on the hardwood floor, Mr. Paulson declared today.

OSGOOD CAGERS TO CLASH WITH FAIRFIELD FIVE

League Leading C. D. & M. Quintet Idle Tonight; Collegians Meet Servicemen

Probably the most interesting Industrial League basketball game to night in the Star Auditorium will come second on the list when Fairfield Engineers meet the Osgood quintet. The Engineers, with Fisher back in the lineup at center, went hot last week and almost downed the C. D. & M. five. Osgoods have been winning steadily during the last few weeks and are the only players with the exception of the league leaders, who have had the honor of defeating the strong Commercial cagers.

The third contest tonight should also prove interesting when the celebrities of the Industrial loop, the Marion Business Collegians, tie up with the Fairfield Service team. The Service crew has not depreciated any in basketball ability this season but the Business College, armed with Cozwell and Wainfor in the lineup, should make things plenty interesting for the Servicemen. Cozwell of Green Camp and Wainfor of Prospect first made their appearance with the College last week.

And the Hulster-Commercial tilt may prove more interesting than it sounds. This game comes first on the bill tonight. Hulsters have won only two days this season and Commercial have lost only two.

The C. D. & M. quintet, league leaders, will be idle tonight. They may need that additional rest for the
